The Fly-in Was A Success!

Dan's official count when people were eating was 164 people and 22 airplanes! We know there were more people who attended during the day, but I think the airplane count was pretty accurate since Jack McChesney took a picture of each of the planes (Thanks, Jack!). There are so many people who need to be thanked for making the day such a success: Jim Clark for loaning his giant flag to be displayed on our boom lift (it could be seen from miles away), Brian Corell for practicing his aerobatic maneuvers over Leo's Place, Paul Visser for providing a spectacular sky diving exhibition, and the guys (Lawrence Herr, Vern Hart, Ed Doyle, Wayne Van Sickle, and Larry Moon) who displayed older vehicles, Kent Foster and Frank Klein for meeting and parking the planes, Rose Shippy for being the official photographer and ribs server, Dick and Denise Clark for ParaBears (more about that later), and Dan Wild for putting it all together. The fly-in started Saturday morning with several people flying over to Mike Kozubek's Buena Terra Fly-in/hog roast. We all came back and Dan and several others started a bonfire and directed the erection of the teepee. Denise Clark served chili and I brought some beef stew and corn bread which was all cleaned up by the thirty or so folks who attended the movie (Pearl Harbor) and ate popcorn. Paul and Liz introduced the movie with a slide show of photos they had taken when the movie was being made in Hawaii where they were living at the time. Around fifteen people camped out that night; it looked a little like a KOA campground! The next morning breakfast was served to the campers so they would have enough energy to get everything ready for the day. In addition to the regular activities, Dick and Denise delighted the kids by rigging up a parachute that would drop a bear (a bunch of bears were later dropped out) and a piñata filled with goodies that was dropped out of Maurice Sharp's plane. It was great fun watching the kids scramble for these goodies! So much went on, I will try to add more in the next newsletter. If you were not able to attend, come to the Holidays Party to see Dan's annual DVD presentation!

Wild Saturday October 3rd

People first started out at Onaga for their breakfast fly-in. Lois Loucks is a leader in that community! Then on to John Miller's hog roast at noon. In the meantime some people (Kent and Kathy Foster and Chuck and Ruth Hall) had their planes on display for the Smithsonian gathering at the Junction City Airport. Some people (like Al and Rose Shippy) made it to all of the events!

Holidays Party

I kept saying that I would find a location for the Christmas Party as soon as the fly-in was over! Well, I waited too long and places I had in mind were all booked...so we are having a HOLIDAYS PARTY on January 2nd at Nelson's Landing in Leonardville. We can have their new, big banquet room and everyone can order off of the menu so you can spend whatever you want (and get the kind of food you want/need). They do have a special of ribs (full rack for $12; half rack for $9) that evening. Put it on your calendar. We will meet there at 6 p.m. for social hour and start ordering when you get there. We'll all try to be eating by 7 p.m. and, of course, a program! No RSVP's because we don't have to pay ahead.

The Amendment Passed

The Hangar Amendment passed with 51 "yes" votes, 1 "no" vote and a few who did not vote. There will be more information later about this.

Journey Stories—Smithsonian Institution

Journey Stories is a traveling exhibition which examines how transportation and migration helped build our nation. As part of this exhibition, vintage airplanes were on display at Freeman Field in Junction City on October 3.
